

National platform for the fight against the manipulation of sports competitions

Annual Activity Report
2018-2019

A word from the Minister for Sport

Created in January 2016, the national platform against the manipulation of sports competitions, which I have the honour of chairing, has once again proved its effectiveness.

This stems first from the very strong involvement of all members of the National Platform. By reading this annual activity report, we are impressed by the work done, the effectiveness of the tools developed and above all the relationship of trust built between all the actors: AFA, ARJEL, CNOSF, FDJ, FNAS, the Ministry of the Budget, the Ministry of Sports, PNF, SCCJ and TRACFIN. In a way, these institutions form the French team for the fight against manipulation. The Prevention Training, chaired by the Director for Sport, has launched a great training plan for athletes trained in INSEP and CREPS, to teach them to recognise when they are approached in order to rig a match, to refuse to enter into the scheme and especially to react, by contacting their coach, their integrity delegate or the National Platform directly. The Surveillance Training, led by the President of ARJEL, had 135 alerts handled directly by the platform in 2018, 39 of which led to the opening of a judicial inquiry in France or abroad, which allowed the Central Racing and Games Department of the Central Directorate of the judicial police to make many arrests, in particular in tennis.

But if the French team for the fight against manipulation is effective, it is also thanks to its international partners and in particular the Council of Europe. The French platform participated in the creation in July 2016 of the network of national platforms led by the Council of Europe: the Copenhagen Group. This group originally consisted of 7 countries. At the eighth meeting, which will take place in Rennes from 17 to 19 June 2019, some thirty countries have already indicated that they wish to participate in this event, which I will have the pleasure of opening. The animation and the reinforcement of this network, in which I wish that the members of the platform continue to be involved, is indeed essential to fight effectively against the manipulation of sports competitions, because when faced with criminal networks that place their bets on many countries at once to avoid being spotted, a global response is needed. This is why I reiterate the goal of Laura Flessel, who preceded me at the Ministry, to bring together 40 countries for the Olympic Games in Tokyo 2020 and 80 countries for those in Paris 2024.

This global response must involve the international sports movement, such as FIFA, UEFA, or the Tennis Integrity Unit, transnational policing agencies such as Europol and Interpol and sports betting operators' associations, such as GLMS or ESSA. All of them are already working with the French platform and the Copenhagen Group, but I hope that these exchanges will be further strengthened and this must come through the entry into force of the Macolin Convention. France will take over the presidency of the Council of Ministers of the Council of Europe on 17 May. Together with the other ministers of the European Union, I will look at the conditions to be met so that we can ratify the International Convention against the Manipulation of Sports Competitions and that so the text enters into force. I have already asked the legal services of the Ministry of Sports to think about allowing, the exchange of information by law, including personal data, within the national platform, of course, but also with other national platforms.

The entry into force of the Macolin Convention, the facilitation of data exchange within the National Platform and within the Copenhagen Group will enable us to be even more effective in the coming years. This is my ambition for the platform.

JUNE

Monday 4 June

Plenary meeting of the national platform

The President of ARJEL presented the 2017-2018 activity report at the annual plenary meeting of the national platform against the manipulation of sports competitions.

This plenary meeting was an opportunity for the Minister of Sports, Mrs. Laura Flessel, to announce her wish for the existence of the national platform for the fight against the manipulation of sports competitions to be recognised on the legislative level. This legal status would allow the communication of information or documents useful to this fight, while guaranteeing the protection of the secrecy of the investigation and the criminal process, but also the conclusion of the conventions with the partner platforms aiming at the sharing of useful information.

At this meeting, a test phase of the RedButton application was officially launched by the Minister. This application is intended to serve professional rugby players and within a training centre in order to trace attempts of and / or actual sports manipulations via a dedicated application while guaranteeing their anonymity, if they wish.

Tuesday 5 June 2018

Participation in a debate in the European Parliament and a conference in Brussels

The coordinator of the national platform was present at the European Parliament in Brussels for the Europarl debate on the fight against the manipulation of sports competitions organised by Bodgan Wenta, MEP, former Polish handball player.

He then attended a conference organised by the ESSA on the question: "Who will win the 2018 World Cup? ». During this meeting, the coordinator of the French platform predicted the victory of the French team!

From Thursday, June 14 to Sunday, July 15, 2018
Enhanced monitoring of World Cup matches

For the smooth running of the Football World Cup in Russia, all members of the Copenhagen Group, under the auspices of the Council of Europe, mobilised in consultation with FIFA. The objective was to ensure optimal monitoring of all matches in the competition. The French Platform was responsible in particular for monitoring Group A matches.

Thursday 13 September
Convictions of 7 defendants for sports bribery in the French Ligue 2 case

On 13 September 2018, the 32nd Criminal Court of Paris sentenced seven defendants in the so-called French football Ligue 2 case, including the former presidents of the clubs of Nîmes Olympiques and Stade Malherbes of Caen, with terms ranging from 5 months suspended imprisonment to 3 years imprisonment with 1 year suspended.

Pursued by the National Financial Procuratorate, after an investigation by the central racing and games department, they were warned to have asked sports stakeholders to intervene on the results of the championship League 2013/2014 to allow for the maintenance of Nîmes Olympiques and access of the Stade Malesherbes de Caen into Ligue 1. Several appeals were lodged.

For the record, the National Financial Procuratorate requested the dismissal of two players from the club of Fréjus-Saint-Raphael in December 2017 for having intervened in the result of two matches of the 2014 National Championship. The investigating judge will soon decide on their referral before the court.

The participants, including the DCPJ Central Racing and Games Department, a permanent member of the French Platform for the Fight against Sports Manipulation, continued work on the establishment of a complete typology of the different forms of sports manipulation. This typology, which is intended to be presented to the Copenhagen Group, may constitute a common base and reference framework for the different national platforms

From Saturday 27 October to Sunday 4 November Surveillance of the Rolex Paris Masters Tennis Tournament

At the request of the French Tennis Federation, physical surveillance by the staff of the DCPJ's Central Racing and Games Department, in support of the system set up by the Tennis Integrity Unit (TIU), was organised during the qualifications and the main event of this major tournament. In the end, several "courtsiders" were detected and evicted. Note that it was during this tournament that individuals from the United Kingdom, were found to be carrying hidden devices, allowing them to transfer data discreetly.

NOVEMBER

Wednesday 7 November First intervention of the national platform as part of the SIGNALE plan

Two members of the platform, a representative of the Central Races and Games Department and a representative of ARJEL, intervened with the young athletes from CREPS of Poitiers in order to make them aware of the rules on sports manipulation and sports betting.

Three questions for Patrice Béhague

Director of CREPS of Poitiers

You were the first CREPS in France to welcome members of the national platform to talk about the dangers of the manipulation of sports competitions, as part of the SIGNALE! Plan, why?

CREPS already hosts the ARJEL as part of the statutory professional training of the specific bodies of youth and sports. This relationship, has been established for 3 years, so all new JS executives are aware of the skills of the ARJEL and have the reflex in order to participate in the protection of the sincerity of our competitions and athletes, including informing the agency of facts or attempts to undermine the probity of our competitions of which they could have knowledge.

The CREPS of Poitiers hosts divisions, and in particular, the France Youth of the French federation of tennis division, a discipline affected by the manipulation of matches. It seemed important to us to educate these young players on these issues (15 years old maximum) who represent, for some, the future of French tennis.

What was the feedback from your guests?

The young people were very receptive to this information. They asked many questions and were very interactive. A young person from the France Tennis Centre testified about an "irregularity" he witnessed and remained with the players in order to deepen his testimony.

Do you plan to organise another training session on the subject?

This training-information must be carried out every year for all young athletes. This awareness must be part of their high level athlete training in the same way as the prevention of doping, harassment, violence and addictions, but also the proper use of social networks.

Friday 9 November
Plenary meeting of the national platform

The members of the national platform launched the "SIGNALE!" plan, following the success of the intervention at CREPS de Poitiers. The content and modalities of future interventions in CREPS were discussed.

Platform members formed a sub-working group to create a multisport platform for whistle-blowers following a comparative analysis of existing tools on the international level, by CK Consulting. The goal is to offer a simple and reliable multisport tool to the French sports movement.

Monday 19 November
Awareness campaign by the FDJ for the integrity advisers of Handball clubs

The integrity adviser of the FDJ intervened with club integrity advisers to raise awareness of the risks of manipulation and remind them of the rules of law they should know related to sports betting.

Tuesday 27 November and Wednesday 28 November 2018
Attendance at the ICE USA congress

The FDJ's integrity adviser intervened to testify to a European experience during the round tables on the current opening of the sports betting market in the USA. This gives rise to many debates on how to protect the integrity of sport in this context. Cooperation with US sports authorities and leagues will be a key element for all international stakeholders, including the Copenhagen Group or GLMS (Global Lottery Monitoring System).

Thursday 29 November to Sunday 16 December 2018
Surveillance of the European Women's Handball Championship

The European Women's Handball Championship has been placed under surveillance by the members of the platform, in cooperation with the sports governing bodies of tennis. Several conference calls were organised during the event to ensure the smooth running of the event.

JANUARY

Execution of a Belgian request for mutual assistance on a suspicion of massive corruption in the tennis world

The National Financial Office has executed a request for mutual legal assistance issued by the Belgian judicial authorities concerning the updating of an organised network specialised in sport corruption in the tennis world. Dozens of tennis players appear concerned, including many French. This request for mutual assistance, executed by the central racing and games department, will lead to international co-operation in order to co-ordinate criminal proceedings.

Friday 11 January

Plenary meeting of the national platform

The meeting brought together all the members of the platform. In its prevention training, its members were able to list past and future awareness activities, as well as develop common tools and supports for each intervention.

In its surveillance training, members reviewed the latest warnings and upcoming competitions to be monitored. The whistle-blower sub-working group then validated the expression of requirements for the upcoming multi-sport platform.

Wednesday 16 January

Questioning in French tennis

The Central Racing and Games Department of the Central Directorate of the Judicial Police (DCPJ) proceeded with a wave of questioning of French tennis players, as part of a request for European investigation issued by the Belgian judicial authorities.

The latter had managed to identify the organisers of a network of corruptors, belonging to the Armenian community living in Belgium, but also to obtain information about tennis players, French among other nationalities, suspected of having manipulated matches, regarding arranged bets, at Challenger and Future level tournaments, at the request of the head of the network and with financial compensation.

The investigations carried out by the SCCJ, within the framework of this request for international cooperation, made it possible to confirm the actions of the network, the modus operandi and the involvement of many French players, progressively discovered.

Thursday 17 January

Alerts in 2018

The national platform against the manipulation of competitions processed 135 alerts in 2018, compared to 92 in 2017. As a reminder, the French platform deals only with alerts for competitions open to betting in France or competitions taking place on the national territory.

	2016	2017	2018	Total
Yellow	27	41	96	164
Orange	3	33	27	63
Red	1	18	12	31
Total	31	92	135	258

The number of alerts recorded last year is up 46%, but these alerts are less serious (+134% yellow notices, -18% orange notices, -33% red notices).

This increase reflects an increase in processed records and anomalies examined, thanks to an increasingly efficient detection system, thanks in particular to our various international partners.

Launched in December 2017, the "Copenhagen Group Logbook" aims to record all manipulation alerts on the global level in order to provide an accurate, sport-by-sport, country-by-country, day-by-day analysis of the manipulation phenomenon. 680 alerts were recorded in 2018 in the "Logbook". The ban on betting on lower level competitions in France has thus helped to protect French gamblers from at least 81% of alerts recorded in 2018.

Project SIGNALE!

In a few words

In September 2018, the members of the platform wanted to change their strategy to fight against the manipulation of sports competitions by targeting primarily the dismantling of manipulators' networks. To do this, the involvement of athletes is a priority. It is a matter of being able to report systematically, as quickly as possible, attempts of an approach that they could become victims of, in order to rig a match or a competition.

In order to meet this objective and to allow the athletes to protect themselves, it was decided to implement a national awareness-raising mechanism for the member athletes of the Espoirs and France divisions, hosted in the institutions of the Grand INSEP network, as well as their supervision.

The "SIGNALE!" Project is founded on these bases. It relies on the determination of all the actors present in the national platform to act with and towards the most vulnerable groups.

The first interventions took place as early as November 2018 and regularly declined until May 2019. For each of these training-prevention sessions, a pair, made up of two representatives of the platform, provided content and a message of awareness adapted to the targeted public (age, sports discipline etc. ...).

In addition to these awareness-raising measures, the members of the platform have decided to develop a whistle-blower protection tool that will be an addition to the French arsenal. Strongly inspired by the European project "PROTECTINTEGRITY +" developed by EU Athletes, a "RED BUTTON" mobile application will be developed by 2020 with the objective of an operational test phase ahead of the Tokyo 2020 Olympic Games.

In a first application that aims to strengthen the handling of the manipulation of matches, eventually it could be developed to deal with other deviations such as doping or other abuse that affects sport.

Due to the fact it combines awareness actions with a warning system, the project "SIGNALE!" is particularly innovative. It is about ensuring the best protection in order to allow the most vulnerable public to anonymously transmit any information related to sports betting and the integrity of competitions.
